

I think the "no-call" list should remain as it is. We have used it since it's beginning and IT SURE IS PEACEFUL. You can't let the banking industry, or any other industry for that matter, run this country, as there is too much of that already. I learned in grade school that we the people make up the government, so that means we the people are the boss, and it is about time government listens to the bosses, and not industries with money.
